

SLAYER OF CHARLES SIMMS DIES IN PEN

TWO DEAD; NINE BURNED IN FIRE

EXPLODING TANKS OF OIL CLAIM LIVES OF FIREMAN AND BOY

Loss Estimated At $50,000
In Mt. Vernon's Worst
Blaze

Mount Vernon, O., Sept. 15.—Mount Vernon's worst fire in years was brought under control today after it had taken a toll of two lives, caused serious burns to nine persons and destroyed property valued at about $50,000.

The dead were Ralph Simpson fireman, who died at 2:45 a. m. at a local hospital from burns received fighting the blaze and Ted Squire, 16, whose body, burned to a crisp, was found in the Kokosing River. Young Squire was blown into the river by the explosion of a big gasoline tank.

Three of the nine persons burned were in critical conditions, and may die, hospital attendants said. They were Harry Hildreth, Milton Parrott, and Forest Sebach, all firemen. The fire which started when a spark ignited gasoline being pumped into the tank of a truck at the Knox Oil Company's station, was spectacular. A number of gasoline tanks exploded. Thousands of gallons of gasoline and oil were destroyed. At noon today the fire was still burning although under control. City authorities believed that all danger of further spread of the flames was past. The fire may burn for several hours, however, it was estimated.

Members of the local company of the Ohio National Guard reinforced firemen fighting the fire. The fire presented many spectacular features. Blazing gas flames hundreds of feet into the air and spread down the Kokosing river for more than a mile giving the appearance of a river of flame.

Automobile traffic on the Three C's highway was blocked by the flames and the stream of cars reached for miles in each direction from Mount Vernon.

The explosion occurred when an auto truck pulled up at the Knox Oil Company station on Main Street to secure a supply of gasoline. Fire authorities believe that a defective wire in the tail light of the truck caused the blaze which ignited the gasoline being turned into the tank of the truck. Nine small tanks of gasoline and fifteen tanks of oil let go with a mighty roar.

Firemen rushed to the scene and turned the water on the blaze, but only added to the extent of the disaster. As four firemen were lying on their stomachs playing a stream of water on the burning gasoline, the big tank exploded. Squire, who had been watching the fire, was blown into the air. Later his charred body was taken from the Kokosing river. The firemen were injured in the same blast.

About twenty persons were burned slightly, including Service Director Charles Phillips, Fire Chief U. G. Pickart and Fireman William Tobias when a 10,000 gallon tank of gasoline exploded, resulting in a panic among spectators.

Other spectators sustained slight injuries, when knocked down and trampled upon or by jumping off buildings near the tank.

Over 100,000 gallons of gasoline and oil were destroyed during the fire. The Knox Oil Company has its headquarters here. It distributes oil and gas through filling stations in Ohio and Indiana.

The telephone exchange building was among those badly damaged by the fire and wire communication was made extremely difficult.

The Pennsylvania railroad bridge over the river caught fire during the night and all trains were stopped.

LEAGUE ADHERENTS FEAR COOLIDGE MOVE

Geneva, Sept. 15.—League of nations adherents are somewhat fearful lest President Coolidge will make a move for a disarmament conference which will bring embarrassment to the league.

The league proposals for disarmament conference probably will not be acted upon before next year, and if President Coolidge in the meantime issues an invitation for an arms parley and it is accepted by the leading nations it is feared that the prestige of the league will be injured.

HOOVER IS PLANNING RADIO SURVEY WITH NEW APPROPRIATION

Expected To Improve Radio Reception Over Last Winter

Washington, Sept. 15.—With a special appropriation of $125,000 virtually assured, Secretary of Commerce Hoover is laying plans for a comprehensive radio survey which officials believe will greatly improve reception over the jumbled confusion of last winter, it was learned today.

Congress will be asked to sanction the radio investigation which last year had the backing of President Coolidge, Budget Director H. M. Lord and the senate. The house killed the appropriation because of a misunderstanding.

The government's radio survey will extend to all sections of the country. Officials, experts and scientists at the bureau of standards, co-operating with a large number of big universities, radio stations and fifty laboratories expect to make the most elaborate probe into the whys and ifs of radio that has ever been undertaken.

Scientists believe that fading, static and other natural disturbances that seriously interfere with the entertainment of radio fans eventually can be eliminated. Man-made interference, such as that between stations leading power lines, electrical plants and electrically driven machinery, while a simpler problem, likewise presents a difficult aspect.

UNION MINERS WILL LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 15.—A call for union miners of all northern West Virginia to participate in a great demonstration, to be held at Fairmont on September 26, has been issued by Van A. Bittner, in charge of the United Mine Workers of America affairs in this state, intimating the inauguration of an intense campaign to re-entrench the organization in West Virginia. In his call he says "let us demonstrate to the coal operators and the general public that the United Mine Workers of America are in northern West Virginia to stay. Let every member do his duty and make this the greatest demonstration ever held by organized labor anywhere in this country."

International President John Lewis and other officials, it is announced, will be present.

POLICE CONTINUE TO QUESTION FATHER CONCERNING ATTACK ON YOUNG SINGER

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 15.—While for more than a year. Her mother, little 14 year old Alberta Perry, musician, was bravely struggling in St. Francis Hospital here today to survive a murderous assault, police were continuing their questioning of the child's father, Otis Perry, who is being held at City Prison, without bond, pending investigation. He is not permitted to communicate with anyone except his attorney, it was announced.

Police stated that Alberta accused her father of having mistreated her,

Dirigible Experts Think U.S. Will Replace Shenandoah

Berlin, Sept. 15.—Undaunted by the Shenandoah disaster, America in all probability, will embark soon on the construction of a larger dirigible. That was the opinion of dirigible builders of the United States and Germany during a conference in Amsterdam and expressed by Dr. Hugo Eckener, in an exclusive prediction to International News Service on his return.

Dr. Eckener was shocked and indignant over the statement attributed to him that the Shenandoah disaster would not have happened had the airship been manned by a German crew, or under the direction of a German pilot.

"That is an utter falsehood," the famous Zeppelin designer and builder declared today. "I have never said a single word to that effect. It is the fabrication of a stupid and misguided nationalist. I never talk that way."

"Even if I were so arrogant as to hold such an opinion, I would not be so foolish as to express it; certainly not so tactless as to do so at a moment when America mourns the loss of gallant officers and men and a fine ship."

The Amsterdam conference brought together President Wilner and Vice President Litchfield of the Goodyear Company of Akron, Ohio, with Dr. Eckener, their associate in the American construction of dirigibles. All agreed that the disaster was due solely to peculiarities, necessarily connected with the use of helium. They believed, however, that these difficulties would be easily removed in the future by certain adjustments.

One remedy which Dr. Eckener has discussed with Commander Steele of the naval air station at Lakehurst is the partial use of hydrogen in the lower part of the gas bags. In order to avert all danger of explosion this hydrogen would have to be deflated as the airship ascended.

The United States NOT TO ACCEPT FRENCH DEBT PAYMENT PLAN

Settlement Must Not Hinge On Germany's Payments, Is Said.

Washington, Sept. 15.—A curt and peremptory "no" will be the American government's answer to any proposal from the French debt commission that settlement of the French war debt of $4,000,000,000 be made in any way contingent upon the payments that France receives from Germany as reparations.

This was ascertained today from the highest sources within the administration. Officials read with interest and some incredulity, dispatches from Paris that Joseph Caillaux, the French finance minister, would lay down such a formula of payment when he arrives in Washington next week.

The position of the United States on this point, it was explained, is so well known that it is inconceivable that M. Caillaux would seriously put it forward in the negotiations. The bedrock position of the American government is that there can be negotiation on only one phase of the French debt. That is France's ability to pay.

Paris, Sept. 15.—France cannot pay the United States any sums for the reduction of debt, which are in excess of the payments of reparations which France received from Germany.

That is the basis of the debt payment policy, which M. Caillaux and the French debt mission will bring to the United States, it was learned authoritatively today.

Tentative proposals have already been drawn up for presentation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his colleagues of the United States debt funding commission.

France will advise the United States, it was learned, that since neither Great Britain nor the United States are willing to guarantee the German payments of reparations, France cannot offer to pay in excess of these payments, whatever they may be. Thus it seems that M. Caillaux will attempt to reach an agreement with the United States on a basis which was rejected by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer of Great Britain. Churchill refused steadfastly to accept any French debt settlement which was contingent upon German payments of reparations, maintaining that Great Britain could not connect these payments with the responsibility of France to pay.

TO ENLARGE FARM

Columbus, Sept. 15.—Having obtained approval of the state control board the state welfare department today was arranging for the purchase by the state of 308 acres of land as an addition to the state prison farm near London. Purchase price for the land was fixed at $50,000, in accord with an appropriation by the last state legislature.

HEN PECKED MEN LOOK THAT WAY

She had charge of a downtown cigar and magazine stand at Akron. And she knew a thing, or two.

"No, I never have any trouble with the married men trying to date me," she explained. "When you've been in this business as long as I have, honey, you can tell 'em."

"When a fellow who needs a hair cut and whose trousers haven't been pressed for a week, comes up and says: 'How about a little dinner and a movie? I tell him I've got to go home and finish up the week's ironing and what he'd better do is to write home to his wife."

"Of course, I don't tell him that the reason I know he's married is because he's looking kind of seedy, but you know yourself, honey, that after a man's married, he's bound, in some way or other, to slump."

FIVE FIRES CAUSED BY N. Y. PYROMANIAC

New York, Sept. 15.—The activities of a pyromaniac who set five fires within twenty minutes of each other, threatened that portion of Harlem lying within a radius of six blocks from Eighth Avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-Fifth Street into an uproar, early today routing hundreds of people out of their tenements.

In each instance, a pile of rubbish in the cellar or hallway of a five story building was set ablaze, but no damage was done. After the second alarm, when it was found that both fires gave evidence of having been started by a maniac, detectives and police began a search of the neighborhood for the culprit but failed to find him. Officials said the incendiary was probably a liquor crazed youth, seeking excitement. They believed he might have escaped over back yard fences when police were hunting him.

DEATH CHEATS CHAIR WHEN FRANK LEE FALLS VICTIM OF WEAK HEART

Condemned To Die December 2, Convicted Man Succumbs To Natural Causes—Death Came at 12:25 Tuesday—Ship Body to Birmingham, Ala.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 15.—(Bulletin)—Death this afternoon deprived the electric chair of another victim when Frank Lee, 38, colored, sentenced to die in the electric chair December 2, for the murder of Patrolman Charles Simms of the Xenia Police Department, died in the Penitentiary Hospital this afternoon.

Death was due to acute cardiac dilation, Lee was stricken several days ago and removed to the penitentiary hospital from the death cell where he had been confined since being received at the penitentiary. Death came at 12:25 o'clock, Xenia time, this afternoon.

The body will be shipped to Birmingham, Ala., Lee's former home for burial.

Frank Lee, alias Robert Lee alias Robert Smith, was convicted of the killing of Charles Simms, veteran member of the Xenia Police Department, by a jury in Common Pleas Court a month after the shooting took place July 10. Lee shot and instantly killed Patrolman Simms at the home of Earl Keyes, colored, East Church Street, as the policeman was about to enter the home to question the man for the alleged jumping of a board bill of Mrs. Jennie Hamilton in Cedarville. Lee fired four shots without warning, riddling the officer with bullets. He fled after the murder and was

HYLAN-WALKER FIGHT IN NEW YORK FOR MAYORALTY NOMINATION HOT

Both Sides Claiming Victory In City's Spectacular Campaign—Waterman Is Conceded Republican Victory.

New York, Sept. 15.—New York City will go to the polls today and, in the belief of astute politicians, cast the biggest vote ever polled in a primary election campaign in the history of the United States.

The bells open at three o'clock this afternoon and close at nine p. m. The most extraordinary police precautions in the city's history have been taken to insure an honest count of the ballots.

As the hour for the opening of the polling places drew near, local interest, which for five weeks has been whipped up to fever heat, became intensified and the polling of a tremendous vote seemed to be a certainty.

The highlight of this most hotly contested campaign New York has ever passed through has been the bitter vituperative fight between Mayor John F. Hyland, seeking the Democratic nomination and State Senator James J. Walker, his opponent.

The electorate of New York has been thrilled for weeks by probably the greatest battle of oratory ever witnessed in a campaign. Spice and color was added to it by the action of Governor Al Smith of New York in injecting himself into the campaign as a supporter of his friend "Jimmy" Walker, father of New York state's boxing law.

Wall street betting odds, as published in the anti-Hylan press, were as high as 2 to 1 that Walker would win. Hyland personally declared these odds to be "just faked."

The Hyland-Walker fight forced into the background the battle for Republican nomination for mayor, a three-cornered contest between Frank D. Waterman, manufacturer of fountain pens, John J. Lyons, formerly secretary of state and William M. Bennett.

Betting odds today greatly favored Waterman, who is backed by the regular Republican organization.

Republican leaders expressed confident belief that if Waterman is nominally elected in the New York City Walker adherents already have begun to indicate fear of inability to win in November—even if Walker wins today. For days they have been demanding to know from Hyland what he will do if defeated, whether or not Hyland intended to run as independent. Hyland has not deigned to make any reply. In addition to the mayoralty contests, the people today will select nominees for controller, alderman, president, borough, county and local officers.

There is no contest for major offices in the socialist primaries.

London, Sept. 15.—Turkish forces have massacred Christians at Norga and deported 8,000 Christians from the Goya country according to dispatches from Baghdad today.

Two hundred and sixty deported Christians have arrived at Zakhu, Iraq, the report said. These reports are coincident with persistent reports that the Turks are active in Mesopotamia preparing to take the Mosul territory providing it is not awarded to them by the league of nations council.

TURKISH MASSACRE AT GOYA IS REPORTED

Following the verdict, the strain of many days in jail and the hardships of the trial began to tell on Lee, and the convicted slayer turned to the solace of religion and prayer. Although realizing he was a doomed man, Lee never betrayed signs of emotion and authorities declared he would probably have died in the electric chair protesting his innocence.

Lee was born in the south and is survived by his widow living in East Monroe, Mich.

ROSS PUPILS HEAR FROM JUNIORS OF FRENCH RED CROSS

Pupils of Ross Township Centralized School, near Jamestown, have received a letter, through Mrs. Sara H. Roberson, executive secretary of the Greene County Red Cross, from the Juniors of the Jann (France) Red Cross for a portfolio sent to France.

Local members of the Junior Red Cross for a portfolio sent to France. The Juniors Red Cross members in the Ross school prepared a portfolio, with pictures showing different phases of American life and customs and sent to the children across the sea.

The letter reads: "Dear Friends: We beg to thank you heartily for the beautiful portfolio. We are glad that so many children have worked at it. They all are our friends. We too want to send you a portfolio as a sign of our friendship, but it is summer now and nearly all our Juniors are out of town. During the summer time we wish to collect material and in the fall make for you portfolios, to show you that we too are thinking about our friends in America."

The Junior Red Cross, according to Mrs. Roberson, is organized with the aim of teaching the children the value of service and inter-national fellowship through correspondence with foreign children.

REMOVAL OF OSBORN IS NOW PRACTICALLY COMPLETED IS WORD

Old Osborn is no more.

The wholesale removal of the village to a new site known as New Osborn, a gigantic project with few equals, instituted three years ago, is practically completed. Transfer of the village was made necessary following condemnation proceedings of the Miami Conservancy district.

The old country school house, rearing its sagging walls from the underbrush and weeds covering the old site, is the only remaining building to show traces of where a village was once located. When this is razed, the last landmark will have been removed.

Osborn's removal to a new site one and one-half miles from its former location in the flood basin, was a project almost without parallel. Under the direction of capable engineers, a new village was founded conforming with modern examples of civic development.

All frame residences, stores and even one church was moved to the new location by specially constructed equipment.

LEAD PENCIL VENDER SCORED BY SERVICE LEAGUE IN REPORT

After recess of three months, regular meetings of the Social Service League Executive Board were resumed Monday evening at City Hall.

An average of fifty-eight families monthly were cared for during the summer, according to the report of the secretary, Mrs. George C. Stokes. Various cases of need were brought to the attention of the board, including cases where both father and mother were ill, with no wage earner in the family; unemployment, partial employment, action by husband, leaving wife in ill health with small children to support alone; widows with large families of small children to support and many cases of children attending clinics who needed medicines.

During June, July and August the League disbursed grocery and coal orders to the amount of $144.00. Ninety-six dollars were spent for milk and thirty-six dollars for medicines. Clothing and shoes were given to the value of eighty-seven dollars. Household equipment was given ten families.

The League co-operated with the Kiwanis Club, the Department of City Government, Lima Welfare Association, Columbus Travelers' Aid Society, Pennsylvania Railroad, Juvenile Court, Springfield Social Service Bureau, Volunteers of America, City Health Department, New York Travelers' Aid Society and Dayton Travelers' Aid.

The treasurer's report for three months was read and accepted. Interesting letters were read from the Cincinnati Associated Charities and The Boston Family Welfare Society in regard to the crippled lead pencil or shoe-string merchant, who is in reality a beggar, according to welfare workers.

The experiences of both cities are that this sort of begging should be eliminated as it is an imposition on a sympathetic public but cannot be broken up without co-operation of the public refusing to support these mendicants by purchasing their wares or dropping a coin in the hat. It is said.

Tests have been made in offering free industrial training to those beggars and the result has been in nearly all cases, a refusal to accept such training as they can make more money by begging.

Fifteen cases were under the care of Miss Jennie Moffett, Social Service League nurse during August, she reported. Seven of this number were dismissed at the end of the month.

Miss Moffett made 200 calls during the month and her work covered a large field of duties.

Greene County Commissioners have taken under advisement until Wednesday the bid of $22,565.81, of the Roth and Janning Company of Dayton for the construction of Limestone Street in Jamestown. It is announced. Bid of the Dayton company was the only one received.

A petition signed by several score citizens of Jamestown, protesting against the commencement of the work of building the street this fall was also filed with Commissioners Monday.

MODISH MITZI Mitzi Looks For What She Wants—Finds It By JAY V. JAY

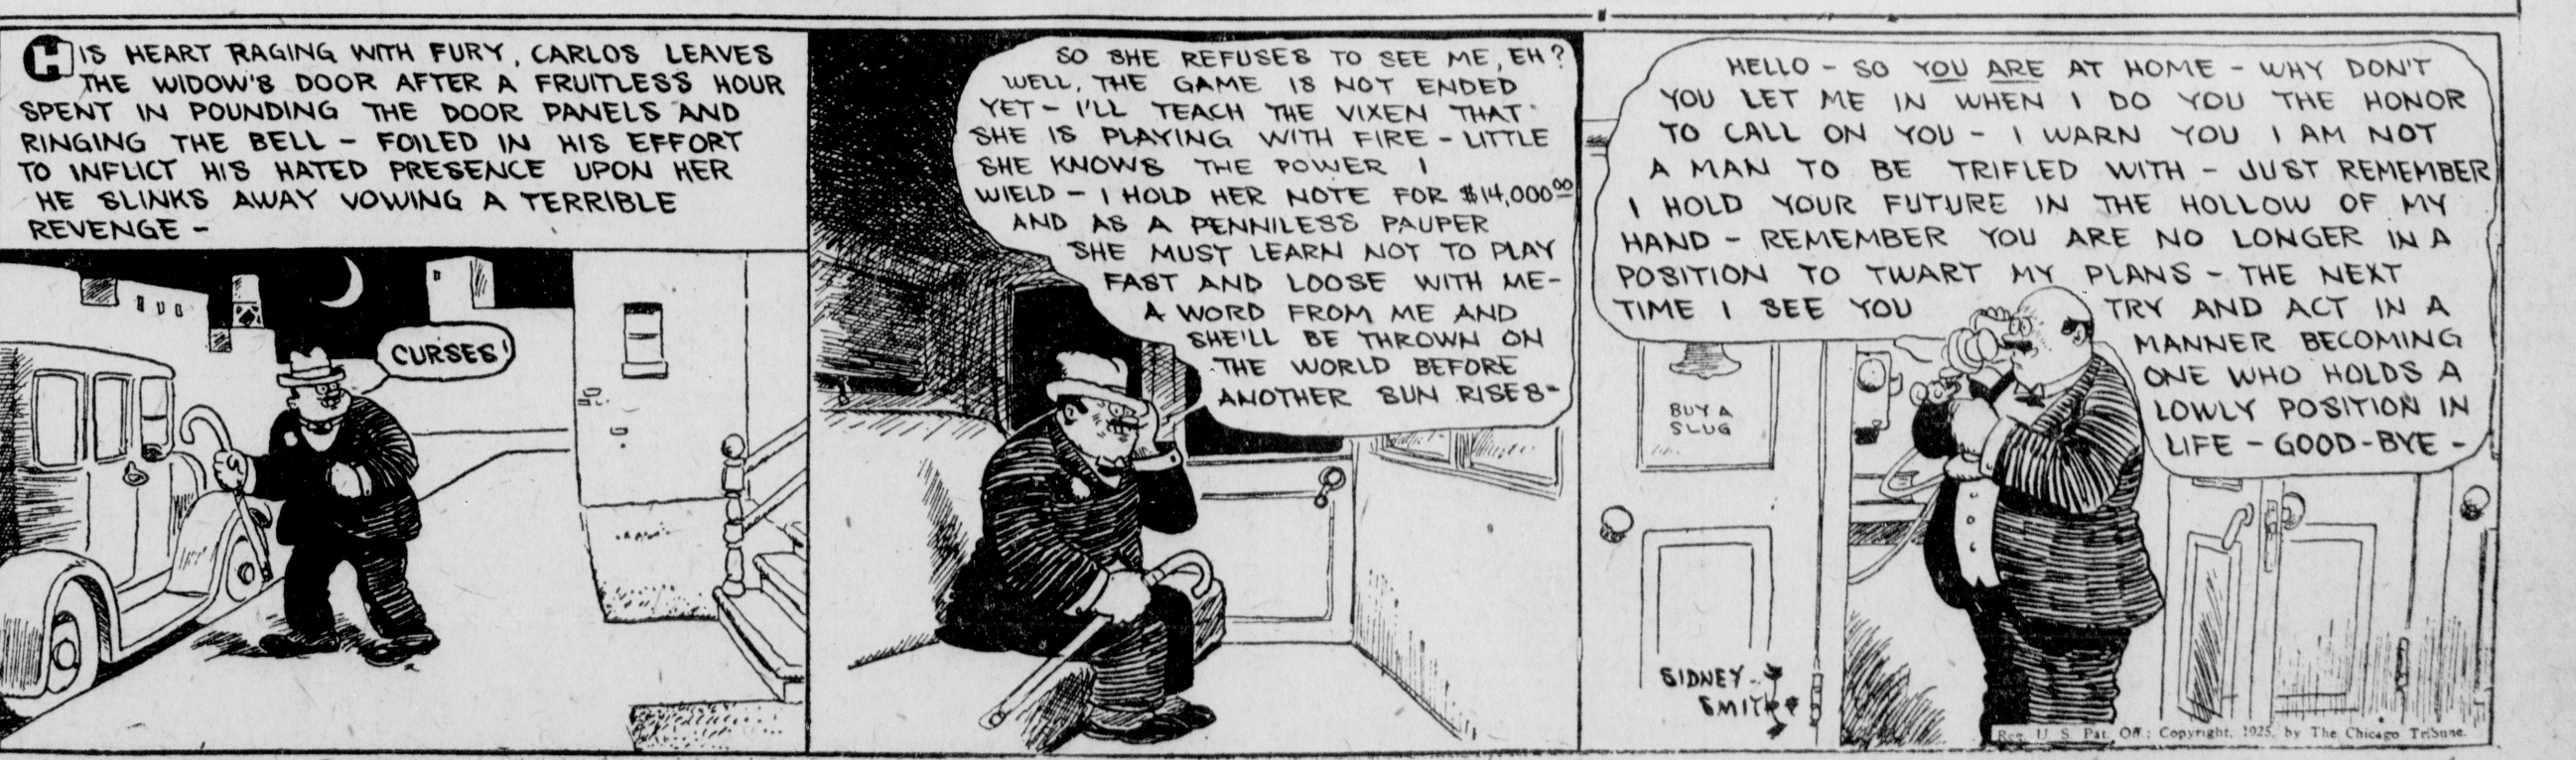

It's all very well deciding what silhouette one should adopt—but shopping never ends there. If Mitzi is to do the thing right—as of course, she will, she must decide on what to wear under the most becoming and smartest of new costumes. Mitzi decides that today is the day to be an ardent shopper of lingerie.

And going into the matter of this lingerie still further, Mitzi sees two styles of the flared chemise. The combination on the right carries the fullness in pleats, the one on the left in a flare. Under the "comby" an elastic and brocade corset with round garters will serve as a firm foundation for this much talked of silhouette.

The newest neckline for lingerie—for nightgowns in particular is the V. This nightgown with a V neck shows a surplus treatment. She's an ardent shopper, is Mitzi. She knows what she wants and finds it.

READY FOR BANK ROBBERS.

FROM the earliest history in this country the forces of order have come off victorious when the forces of disorder issued the challenge. The horse thieves of pioneer days, through all states west of the Alleghenies, lost when the communities organized to establish the law pertaining to property. The limbs of trees, the convenient rope and the squirrel rifle helped emphasize the victory of law. The vigilantes cleaned house in Frisco so completely that no return of the gunmen was tried. It needed only six days to establish law and order and make life and property secure in Omaha when the gunmen from the Pacific Coast tried to run that town in the early days. The forces of order were organized, armed and determined. It was a bloody but a convincing victory.

Through Minnesota and many other states of the central and western sections rangers have been organized to capture or kill bank robbers. Men who can shoot straight and quick are directing the organization. Fast autos are waiting, the telephone service covering a county has been prepared to distribute the news, that an army of men may be roused in a few minutes. The guns for close work and long distance target practice have been distributed and are in the hands of men who know how to use them and may be counted on to waste few shots. There will be clashes if the robbers try their protected territory, and clashes out there will mean work for the coroner. The criminal courts may be given no cases but there will be a decrease in the forces of bank robbers. It was in a little town in Minnesota where a few men with guns put to an end the depredations of the James boys. Another little town in Kansas, with men of the same kind, disposed of the gang that had raided at will many towns. No one cares to counsel wholesale shooting and the destruction of human life, but when bank robbers and thugs dare a community the chances are there will be some lives sacrificed. That is the established method of enforcing law in America in great emergencies.

IT MEANS WELL.

THERE doubtless were a number of individuals who on starting to read the recent dicta of the National Association of Retail Clothiers on the correct attire for men thought they were going to be pained throughout. For instance, in addition to dinner coat, evening clothes and four rack suits for business wear, the well dressed man must needs have a sport suit, a frock coat, two overcoats and a high hat. Those who imagined that they were going to be irritated to the very end of the story, however, found a most refreshing bit of common sense.

The National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers goes on record as saying that it is all right to wear "Galluses." Not only is there considerable good in an organization that says it is all right to wear suspenders, but additional strength is given to the impression by the term used. An organization that calls suspenders "galluses" gets pretty close to the heart of a substantial element of each community. Some gentlemen who have felt obliged to wear vests on the most torrid days to cover their "galluses" will now doubtless find a quickening of their manhood to the assertion of some independence. When a national organization that knows precisely what the well-dressed man should wear gives its word to the country that it is all right to wear galluses not a few vests may now be felt at home.

Considerable may be forgiven the organization for its seeming effort to fasten the sport suit, four business suits, a frock coat and a top hat upon masculinity. It has to be taken into account that it serves a wide variety to tastes. It means all right as shown by the recognition that it also gave to the lads who not only wear suspenders, but also call them "galluses."

INCOMES.

THE income tax returns published by the newspapers might be a spur to ambition.

Many of those who pay income tax actually pay out in tax much more than many of the readers of the returns for a year's work. The list of largest taxpayers might represent a blue book of successful business and professional men and women.

For instance the return made by B. H. Kroger, the Cincinnati chain groceryman and traction magnate, should serve as a spur to languid ambitions. Kroger began as a peddler of coffee and tea from house to house. His income tax report shows he paid the government more than $111,000 which, of course, does not give any indication of how many non-taxable securities he owns.

Kroger's income tax now is probably considerably more than that paid by many people at whose doors he called in other days to sell his tea and coffee.

Just Folks

BY EDWARD A. GUEST

THE RAINY DAY
Chairs into chariots were changed
And every room was rearranged.
The tablecloth became a tent,
To which a sturdy captain went
To snatch a little rest when he
Had vanquished every enemy.

My arm suffered more than all,
Its back became a castle wall
Up which, with courage most sublime,
Attacking heroes tried to climb;

And from the ruin one could tell
Where many a deadly pillow fell.

Within the dining room the staves
Of chairs were draped for gloomy caves

Where pirates, fearful to behold,
Buried their chest of stolen gold,
And in the end gave up their lives
Defending mother's forks and knives.

And all day long the rain came down
And filled the gutters of the town.

The grown-folks grumbled, but a child
To such despair is reconciled,
For his imaginative play
In that rainy day.

M. S.: "Kindly tell me how to remove the shine from a pair of wool trousers caused by sitting down."
Answer: Rub the material with a fine grade of sandpaper. This will rough up the nap. Repeat as often as the shine reappears.

C. M.: "Have you a recipe for Maryland Ice Cream?"
Answer: No, but perhaps one of our readers will happen to have this recipe and will be good enough to write it on a postal card and mail it to me, in care of this paper, for publication.

Mrs. J. M.: "I have been cutting recipes from Sunday papers and sending them to other publications, but they have not been accepted. Is there any rule against doing this? I thought it would be better to send printed recipes than some of my own hand-written ones, which would be harder to read."

Answer: Yes indeed there is a rule against it. Everything published in a paper or a magazine or a book is copyrighted and could not be published by any other publication. You should submit only your original recipes to periodicals for publication. Have them typewritten, not hand-written.

R. E. M.: "Please print a recipe for a real Angel Cake."

Answer: A "real" angel cake contains no baking powder, but has a great many eggs. Few of us can afford to bake it except for special occasions, as for a party. Here is an excellent recipe: Angel Cake: Beat 12 egg-whites very stiff, then beat one and one half cups of granulated sugar into them gradually. Add one teaspoon of vanilla extract and fold in one cup of pastry flour which has been previously sifted with one teaspoon of cream of tartar and a pinch of salt. Mix this cake as quickly as possible, then turn it into an ungreased angelcake pan and slip it into a very moderate oven to bake from 45 to 50 minutes. The cake pan should be covered with a pan during the first ten minutes of this baking period, and also during the last six minutes.

Young Housewife: "A friend has given me a pair of blankets for my new home. They have been used and I feel that I would like to wash them. How is this done?"
Answer: Soak them for one hour, well covered, in lukewarm water in which you have dissolved one fourth of a pound of borax and a little white soap finely shaved (about one half cake). Lift from the water, do not wring, hang on the line, and turn a stream of cold water from your hose on both sides (or throw handfuls of fresh water at the blankets). This is the simplest way of doing the work and one of the best.

Today's Talks

It is now three o'clock on a quiet summer afternoon. It is very warm out in the sun, but under the large maple at the top of this towering hill, where we have come, it is not uncomfortable.

Scarcely a leaf stirs. The road by which we came was a winding, steep one. During the entire afternoon but one human being has passed—a man with a team of lumber.

Far below, in the distance, is historic Lake Champlain fringed like lace with its green and fresh foliage of trees. Its waters are as smooth as glass. Beyond is the shore of Vermont where the Green mountains rise and fall in rhythmic beauty, dulled into softness by the mist that is gathering over the lake, and reaching to mother these mountains in their secret thoughts.

Here and there in the distance a patch has been cleared and a little green and white frame house appears with its barns and other out houses.

Just about a quarter of a mile from where we sit and write, is a saw mill. Its rusty smoke-pipe, reaching from the low building hidden behind a mass of lovely trees, forms a contrast not unbeautiful, while the piled lumber bespeaks of many a happy home that will some time join others below in the valley.

I see the creamy milkweed that spots the open spaces and there are more golden this peaceful spot than away among the great pines.

The little family of crickets that sing me to sleep far away in the city, are practicing for their nightly concert out here and soon the katydids will have their inning.

Just a little way from here I see heavily laden apple trees that will fill many a winter barrel.

I am being entertained by butterflies, happy birds, and the slight thoughts of wild flowers that bloom to give and die. I am alone, but not lonely.

Everything in this almost deserted spot bespeaks beauty and peace.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac." is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanic came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Trains Surrender to Busses in New York Capital

The street railway company in Albany, N. Y., is supplanting its cars with busses, the first company, it is said, to voluntarily do so. A fleet of the busses is seen taking over a tram line. Busses are making such enormous inroads into the business of electric railways that many authorities see the industry as doomed. Others disagree, and say the traffic problem will bring the electric car back.

Can a father be held jointly liable for crimes committed by his son when, knowing the youth's mental deficiencies, he allows him to be at liberty? This interesting legal question has been brought up by the case of Harrison Noel, 20, confessed kidnaper and slayer of Mary Daly, 6. Montclair, N. J. police believe the father, Dix W. Noel, New York lawyer, should be tried with the son. This is a new photo of the youth.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST SPEED TRAPS TAKES QUESTIONNAIRE FORM

According to word received by officials of the Greene County Auto Club, seventeen questions to be answered by motorists arrested for speeding are in the speed trap questionnaire submitted Monday by Wesley S. Thurston, Jr., of the Ohio State Automobile Association. Mr. Thurston was assisted in preparing the list by John McChord, Cleveland attorney.

The Greene County Auto Club and all Clubs affiliated with the Ohio State Automobile Association, will be requested to supply members with copies of the questionnaire when they report arrests in alleged speed traps. Auto clubs will then send the questionnaires to the state association of clubs in Columbus.

Thurston said each questionnaire will be filed and later reviewed by the state association officers, the special speed trap committee of the state association and then turned over to state officials interested in aiding the Ohio State Auto Association in eliminating the justice speed trap from Ohio's roads.

This year's fight against the speed trap has been one of the bitterest ever conducted by the state organization. It is said. During the convention at Cedar Point all delegates expressed informally their dissatisfaction with the existing speed traps in Ohio. Thurston, soon after taking office, appointed a special speed trap committee to cover Ohio.

The first meeting of this committee was held in Columbus several weeks ago and it was decided to issue a questionnaire and adopt other methods of attack against the Justice of the Peace Courts known to be unfair to the motorist.

The Ohio State Automobile Association, although perfectly friendly to the Justice of the Peace Court, is unalterably opposed to the squire who drains the dollars from motorists' pockets for personal gain, state association officials say.

ANTHRACITE COAL IS SOARING IN PRICE; STRIKE IS BLAMED

Coal in Xenia, and everywhere else in these United States is "going up, going up, everyday." The fellow that filled his bin before the high prices began to arrive, should be going around patting himself on the back, figuratively speaking.

With the coal strike only about a week old, prices began to soar like a skyrocket on the Fourth of July. The increase has been general over the country, with the strike call to miners.

Xenia dealers have found it next to impossible to obtain anthracite coal and this grade is reaching the highest mark of any kind of coal.

Prices on soft coal have increased from seventy-five cents to $1.00 a ton, with one local dealer. The same dealer is wholesaling Pocahontas coal at an increase of from $2.00 to $2.50 a ton. Pocahontas sold for $7.50 a ton before the strike, whereas the price is now $9.50 per.

Kentucky and West Virginia coal has increased twenty-five cents a ton, with another Xenia dealer. Pocahontas is selling for $10.00 a ton, an increase of $2.50 a ton, at the same company.

The prices quoted are an average with Xenia coal dealers.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

Chapter 149

With his mind made up, Michael went down to the office that morning resolved to quit Arthur Manning's company immediately. After all, he had decided, it wasn't even the shadow of his father's concern any more. He must not let sentiment cause him to waver.

With the letter from the president of the Westminster company in his pocket, he was a blithesome spirit. He wore such an all embracing smile to the office that old Grimsby, the chief clerk, wondered if the stork had visited the Menlow House.

Was it luck or fate or coincidence that caused Arthur Manning to call Michael into his office just as the latter was preparing to go in of his own accord? "Luck," Michael would have said.

"Sit down, Michael. I have been intended to have a talk with you for several days, but haven't been able to arrange it."

Michael smiled slightly. Arthur Manning was always impressing people with his extreme businessness. The president carefully lighted a cigar. "It seems to be understood that you are going to leave this company," he began.

"Well, you could hardly expect people to infer anything else from the stock sale."

Michael detected a hesitancy in Manning's words. What was on the president's mind? His mind's question was answered at that moment.

"What I have to say is this: I don't think we can get along without you, Michael. I want you to stay. It is apparent to me, even if it isn't so apparent to others, that Inglesby cannot do the work as well as you are doing it."

Michael protested calmly: "Oh, I wouldn't say that." A question jumped into his head: Did Arthur Manning know of the offer made by Westminster? He regarded the president searchingly, seeking an answer.

"Well, I must admit I was a little blind to the fact myself. No I want you to stay. I want you to get any ideas out of your head about starting a business of your own."

Michael started a little, and Manning smiled. "I am going to propose to the directors that you be given the title of vice president," he continued. "And in order for you to have voting power

I am going to return to you some of your stock at the price I paid for it."

Michael was annoyed by the president's self-assurance. It caused him to blurt out: "No, Mr. Manning, you aren't going to do anything of the kind. I am leaving the company. Effective the first of the month."

The president's eyes bulged. Michael capped the surprise. "I have a very attractive offer from the Westminster company, and I probably will accept it. In any event, I will leave this company the first of the month."

Now that it was settled, and done, he was relieved. Why had he waited all these weeks?

Manning surrendered. "Very well, I
